• English: A Recipe for Success

An Investigation on the Role of English as a key to Economic and Education Development in the Algerian Landscape

The English language has become one of the critical tools for the development process, thus it became the synonym of success in all kind of fields. Algeria like any other state in this globalized world is seeking development as well. Consequently, this report has investigated the possible impact of the English language on the education and economic development in Algeria. Accordingly, the English language is important factor for the emancipation process in Algeria, either in the education or economy and that the English language would serve as a key to an endless flow of knowledge for education progress and as a key of doing business with the entire world for economic development.
